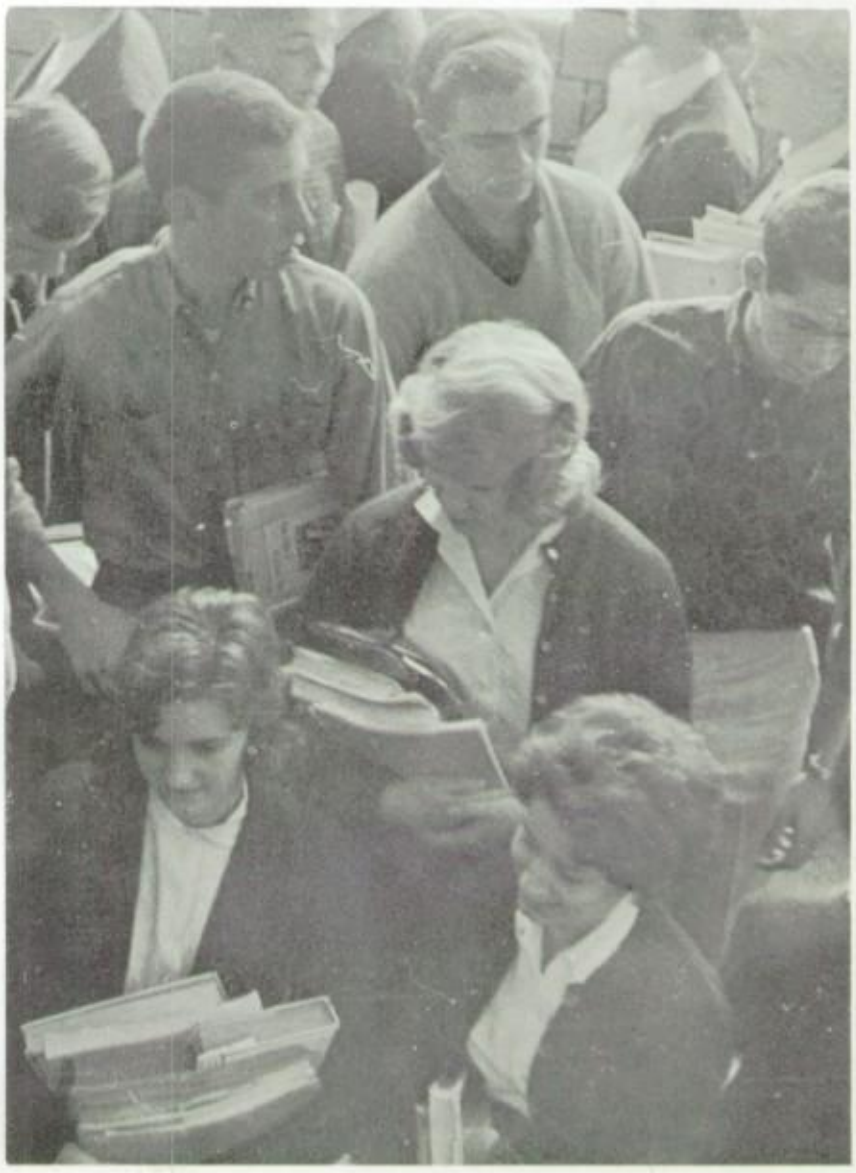
MAY 1963

While students dreamed of vacation days ahead, construction started on the new addition, the second in Alleman's history.

When school opened in the fall, crowded conditions made the students look hopefully to the time when the addition would be completed.



The new addition saw use even before it was completed. (above) John Paskvan found it was a good place to day-dream of the approaching vacation-time. (left) John De Greve can justifiably claim to be the first student to use the new second floor classrooms. (above) Crowded stairways and hall made everyone hope the construction would be quickly finished.

As weeks passed

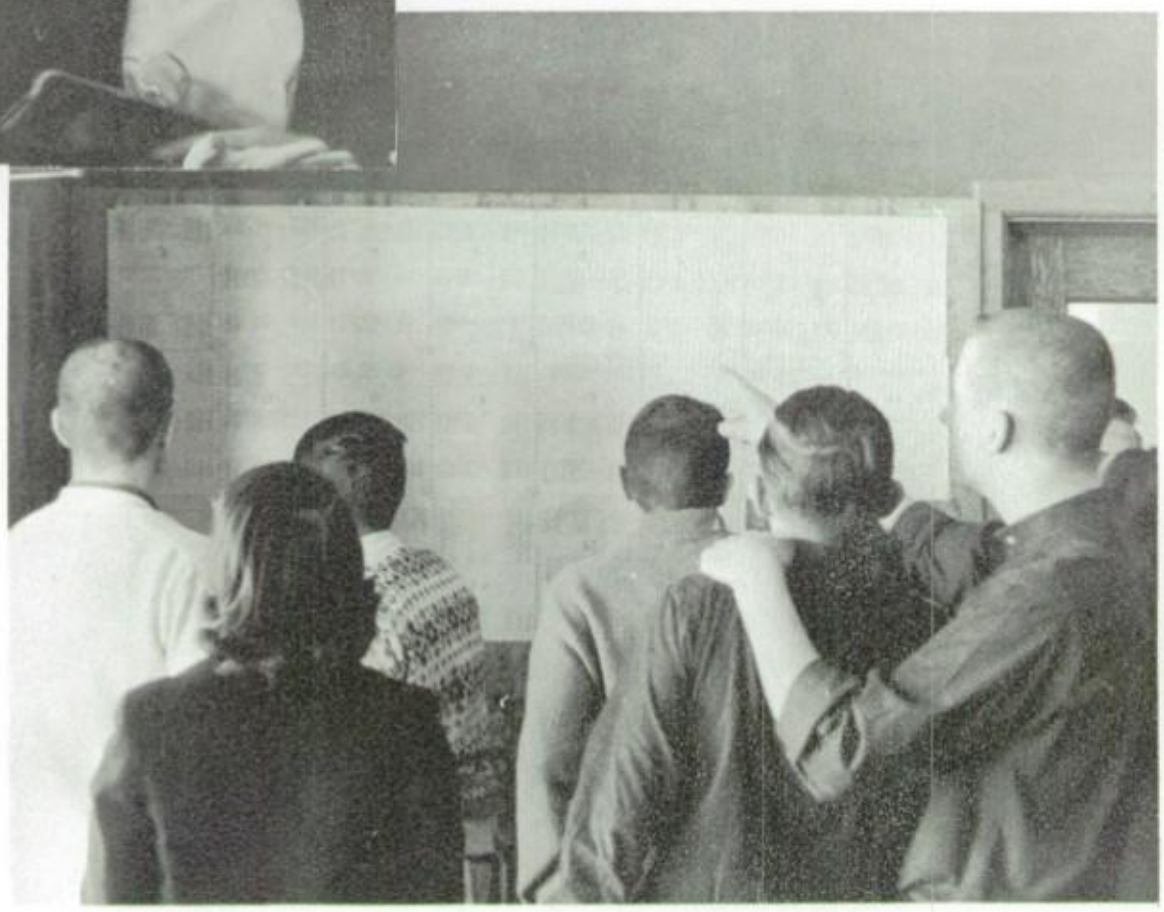
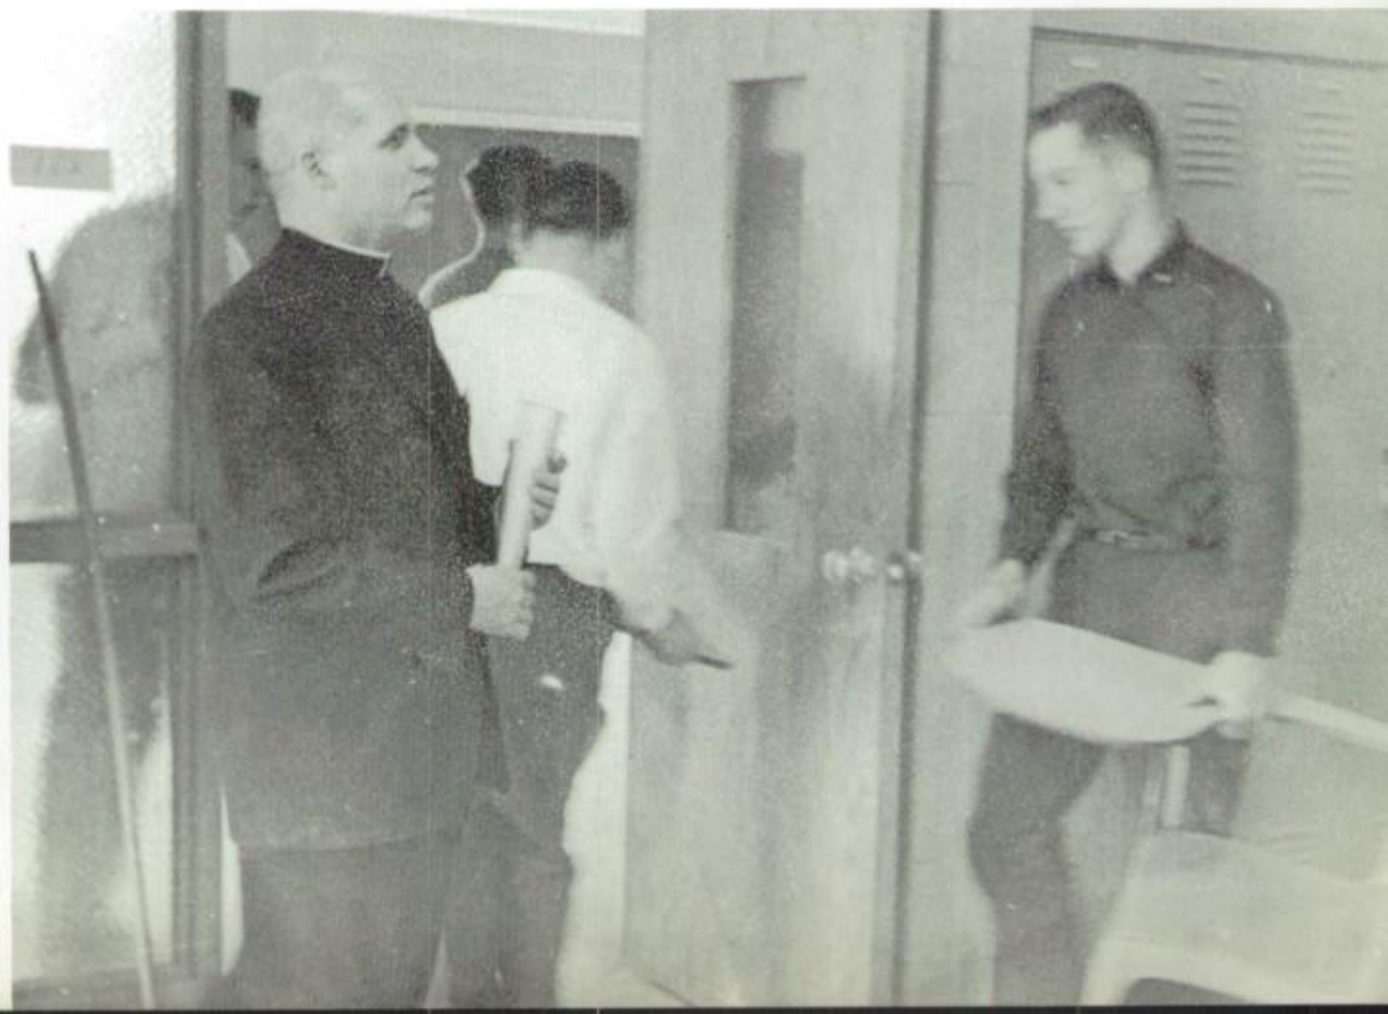
and grew

and grew

Excitement mounted as the new classroom locations were posted.





Moving started just before the Christmas holidays. Students returned to find new schedules and also new classrooms waiting for them.

Open house was held on January 5 for members of the board and friends.

The public toured the new facilities for the first time on January 12, 1964.

(above) Father O'Connor was on hand to greet visitors touring the new building. (center) So were members of the Men's Club. (right) Some of the younger visitors found the flowers more interesting than a bunch of empty rooms. Ellen Klak reads the card for an interested young lady.

Faces, Places, . . . So Much to Learn

The first week of school is a time of change, not only for the annual influx of freshman students, but also for returning upperclassmen as all face new courses and some new teachers.

Freshman Week '63 was characterized by a lack of space and an abundance of noise as work progressed on the new addition.

On hand to greet the 362 Frosh and 941 returning sophomores, juniors and seniors were the 48 members of the faculty, including 10 new teachers.

It wasn't long before students employed the services of Mrs. Clifford Babinski, AHS's first infirmarian.

Upperclassmen found that the change from 7 to 8 periods gave them seemingly longer days.

"To step on or not to step on" became the question as students noticed the new "A" in the main lobby.

Students became numbers and cards as the IBM system efficiently catalogued everyone.

(above) "30, 7, 12," and frustration was the case as the frosh tried their lockers for the first time.

Class of '67 Largest Ever

This year's 362 member frosh class was the first to benefit from a reorganized Freshman Representative Committee. Emphasizing parliamentary procedure, the representatives gave instructions each Wednesday to prepare the freshmen for their role in student government.

Members of the committee were, l. to r., Linda Engels, Peggy O'Neill, Sally Negro, Pam Brady, Barb Robinson, Mike Petersmith, Liz Steinhauser, Dave Sodac, Nancy Neu, Donna Nagel and Candy Carroll.

from the complexities

and live with God.

This year's retreat was conducted by Fathers Richard Means and Edward Buttgen on November 4 - 8.

This is the time for

Promise of Things to Come . . .

Stop! "Teacher" brings order out of chaos throughout the sophomore assembly.

This year's Sophomore class has shown promise. Promise of what? Well, many things.

Scholastic-wise they are coming into their own. A survey after the first semester has shown eleven students on the Principal's list; fifteen attaining first honors; and forty-eight rating second honors.

Their class spirit was evident in their many activities. To start the year off they completed their homecoming float in record time. Election campaign brought out their interest and enthusiasm in the affairs of the Student Government.

The highlight for the Sophomores was their class assembly. Combining talent and ingenuity, they performed like semi-pros. Group numbers, and male participation again displayed their spirit and willingness to succeed.

All signs tend to point in one direction — next year's Junior class will be well adjusted and prepared to take on the responsibilities of upperclassmen.

Reflecting the affluence of their class are sophomore representatives and their M.G. They are seated Roseann Lee, secy.-treas., Henry Kacprzyk, vice-president, and Harlan Agnew, president; and standing, John Schuller, Rose Viviani, Mary Kay Hendricks, Jackie Evanoff, Willey Mack, Mary Sue Carroll, Jean Wiseley, Marcia Phillips, Joyce Thornton and Jennifer McKenzie.

Blue Tango

That color is essential to the mood of a production was beautifully demonstrated in the sophomore assembly "Blue Tango."

Whether it was the happy "Mississippi Mud" or the breath-taking "King and I" trilogy, each number was enhanced by the mood co-ordination of color and music.

The total effect was an entertaining flow of comedy, song and dance.

It took many hours of rehearsal to coordinate the action of Mississippi Mud.

Siamese dancers are (l. to r.) Rose Viviani, Judy Stehn, Sharryn DeVooght, Sandy Hafner, Terry King, and Chris Polito.

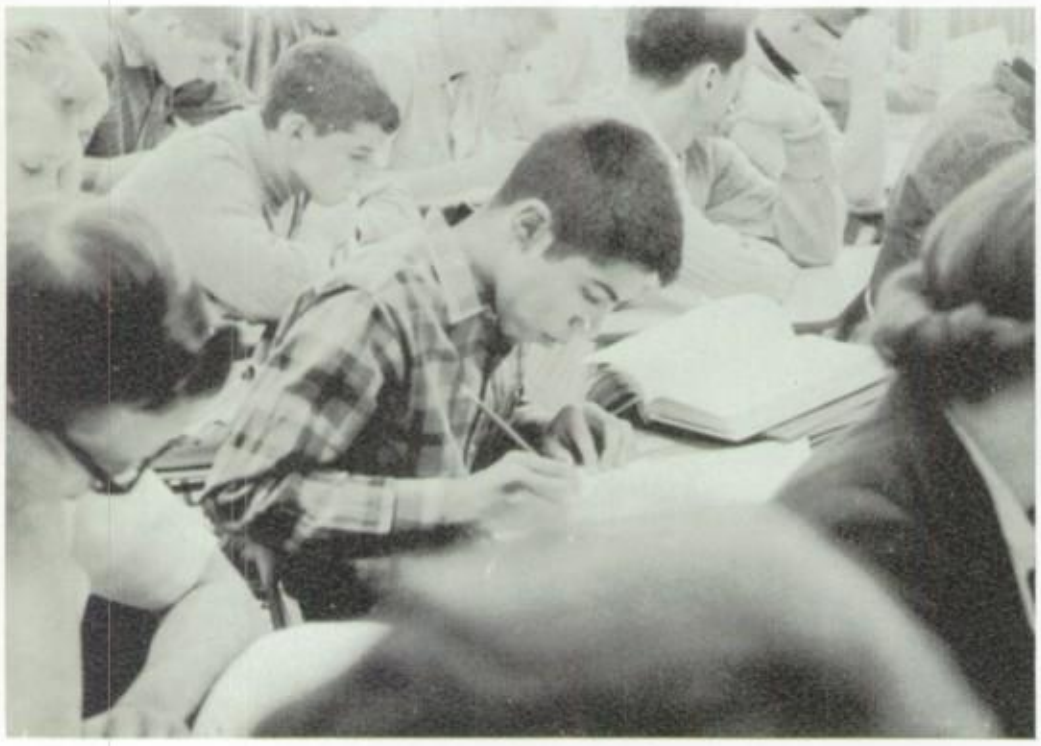
STUDY (?) HALL



Bored with study? If you've had it, try the favorite pastime of little old grandmothers and bored girls — knit. Although Paul Castillo (above) finds he needs the time to study, Gail Harper (right) finds the time perfect to "knit and purl."

Knitting doesn't appeal? Then find excitement and adventure in the attendance office. Enjoy life, trace a truant. (above) Margo McIntosh checks out the attendance lists. Sylvia Jesuit (left) finds her time best spent in the traditional way.

There are many ways to spend a study hall. By far the most common is to settle down and do the homework you should have finished the night before.

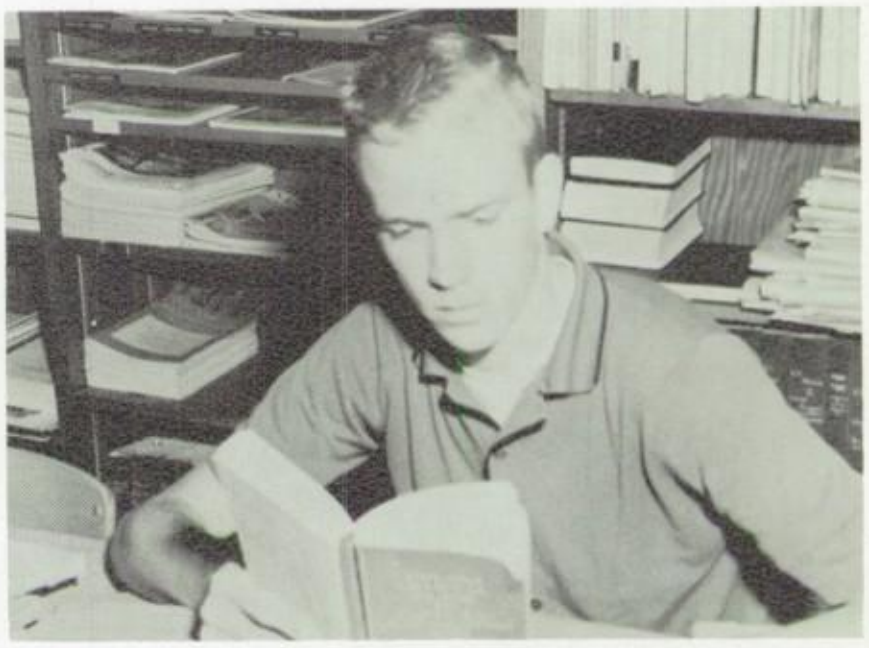
At Alleman there are other means of passing this assigned hour if the student has a decent grade average, good character and a desire to help others.

This year at A.H.S. 99 girls and boys volunteered study hours to serve on switchboard, in the attendance office, in lost and found, with the Visual Aids department, and in the library.

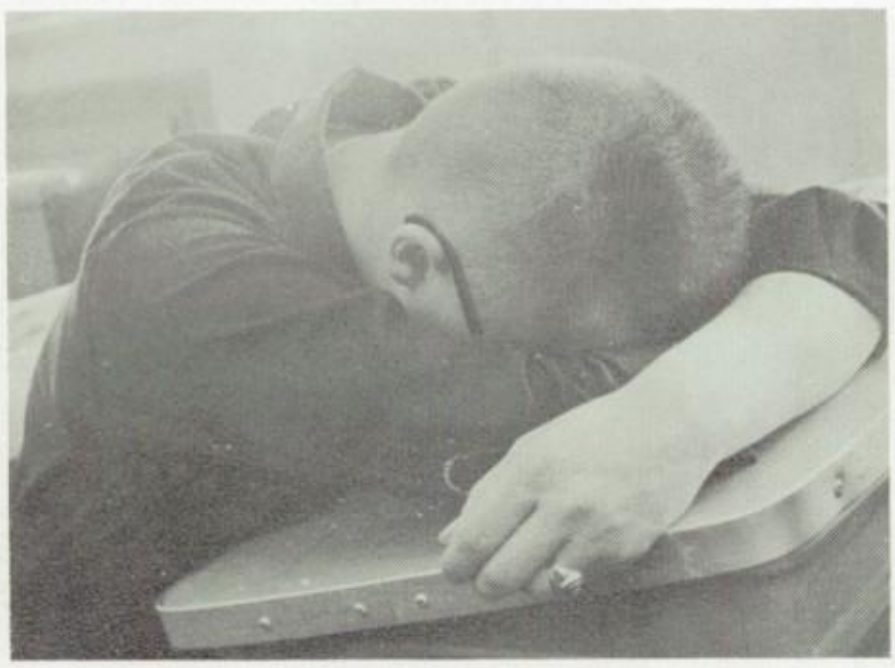
In order of preference, the following is a summary of how Alleman students spent their study halls this year.

1. Studying
2. Sleeping
3. Volunteer service
4. Reading
5. Writing letters
6. Sewing (especially around assembly time)
7. Knitting
8. Miscellaneous

"Hm, it looks like she's doing Physics and I thought we didn't have an assignment." Carmen Marchese finds study hall very informative.



"Eeny meeny miney mo, to which college will I go" Terry Payne finds that study hall is a good time to use the library's college catalogue.



"Z Z Z Z z z z z z" There are times when the night before catches up with the day after, and eyelids droop, heads bow and Allemanites journey to the land of Nod.

"Good afternoon, Alleman High School" Diane Smith is one of the girls who mann the switchboard during school hours.

The class of '65 once again broke all precedents by presenting a play in place of the traditional class assembly. "The Ticket of Leave Man," a melo-drama, exhibited both individual talent, and class participation. Under the leadership of Father Calkins, their faculty advisor, the juniors constructed the winning Homecoming float.

In student government, the juniors once again proved themselves. Besides taking care of the business in their own class, the juniors watched over freshman proceedings. They instructed future officer holders as to their duties, and prepared them to take over.

After three years of being underclassmen, the juniors can now look forward to being the top men on the totem pole. Next year should prove interesting.

The Alleman Scene -

Morning

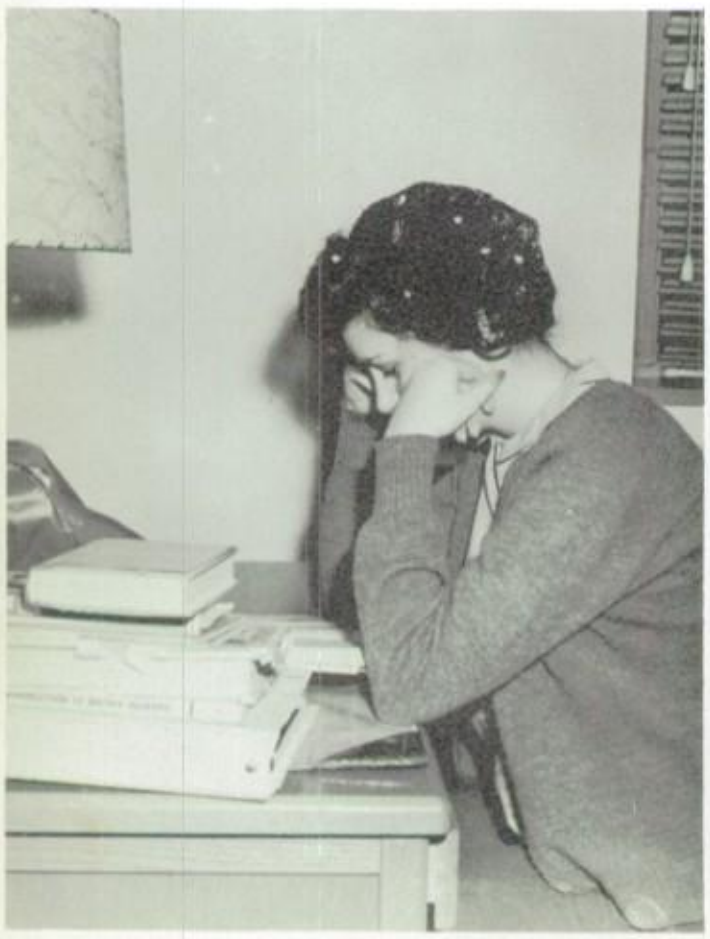
Arriving by foot, bus or car, Allemanites converge at our school between 6:30 and 8:29½. The ones who come early have a variety of places to converse, pray, play or study.

After a visit to the student's locker one can attend Mass in the chapel, after which homework can be completed or one can have a last minute to cram for a test.

The halls are usually crowded before school with a certain restlessness in the air. This increases as the 8:28 bell rings. Then Johnny says so long to Susie and the halls are deserted as period 1 begins.

Noon

Lunch period arrives at last! Hungry students rush to the cafeteria or lunch rooms to refuel after a grueling morning of classes. Recreation in the form of ping pong or conversations about surprise tests, which aren't surprises to the afternoon classes, marks the time between lunch and homeroom.



And After School

2:45 — "Is it finally over?" sigh seniors and some priveleged juniors after a weary day of hard book-learnin'; a refreshing stop at the Supply Store uplifts upperclassmen before heading for work, practice or home. The stillness of 8th period is broken by the last bell and a rush of elated underclassmen fills the halls. "What do we have for homework?", is frequently heard among the shouts of joy that the day is finally over — over for everyone except the ones with (ugh) detentions!

Religion

new team teachers

An awareness of the responsibilities inherent in an attempt at spiritual formation gives pause for reflection. Above is Sr. Michael Mary, B.V.M.

Father Watson and Father Bader were one of the four sets of team teachers who taught religion classes this year.

As in the rest of life, all is not serious in religion classes — as demonstrated by Father Calkins and his camera shy juniors.

Religion classes always place a weight of responsibility on the shoulders of the teacher for the spiritual formation of students. Team teachers, an innovation this year, take advantage of the teaching abilities of many of the area's parish assistants, and at the same time relieves the pressure of too many classes from the full time faculty.

Art

Art is a medium that appeals to the young and old. Seven-year-old Hans Van Heule, a frequent visitor, enjoys himself nearly as much as his older "classmates."

Joe Kotleba, Frannie Woeber, and Bob Jackson display their award-winning art pieces shown at the Rock Island County Town and Country Art Show, junior division. Bob took two first places, Frannie had one first, and Joe had two pieces place second.

Frank DeCastaker, freshman, works on his giraffe as part of a unique art program.

Tim Kargl, Sister Alexia and an assorted collection of art lovers worked diligently during the summer to finish the stained glass windows in the chapel.

Sister Alexia points out details in a Byzantine Madonna form in colored ink by Bob Jackson.

Language Classes

Languages always play a big part in the curriculum of a college-bound student and pupils at Alleman are no exceptions.

The classical language, Latin, and the modern Romance languages of Spanish and French are the three offered to Allemanites.

Latin, which is taught by Rev. Edward Anderson and Sister Mary Eucharista, is offered all four years. The third and fourth year classes combine and a cycle course consisting of the writings of Cicero and Virgil is offered to them.

Spanish is also taught all four years and students are aided in their study through the use of Alleman's Spanish lab. For the first time the Audio-Lingual Method (ALM) Spanish course was used at Alleman.

This year French classes were turned over to Belgium-born Mrs. Janet Van Heule, who formerly taught at St. Katherine's High School in Davenport. Three years of French are offered to Pioneers.

SCIENCE

What's new in Alleman's world of science? BSCS for one thing. The Biological Scientists Curriculum Study is a new method for teaching biology employed at Alleman in the past year. It requires twice as much laboratory time as the traditional course, placing emphasis on life at the molecular level.

In the biology classes as a whole there has been far greater stress placed on experimentation and investigation rather than book work.

In the field of chemistry a special course preparatory for nurses' training has been introduced. It contains much the same material in the line of elementary chemistry as does the traditional. There is, however, an added emphasis on the biological aspects of chemistry.

Conventional physics is a "used to be" at Alleman. It has been replaced by Physical Science Study Committee materials, consisting of a four part text, laboratory manual and materials, and accompanying films. The number of teachers adopting this new method has increased from eight in 1957 to approximately 4,000 in 1963.

One Day Week-end Destroys Tradition

Somehow Homecoming '63 seemed different. It was. A schedule mix-up necessitated rescheduling the times of traditional events.

The week before disintegrated into a hectic marathon of float building and planning for Saturday — the day of the parade, game, dance, and post-dance activities.

There was no denying it, homecoming was in the air. Candidates smiled at everyone, platonic relationships took on new dimensions as the dance approached, teachers kept their patience with distinterested students and the time flew.

Night after night students congregated at Consumer's, the Armory and Lohse's for fun, foolishness and occasional moments of work on the class floats.

The climatic moment would be hard to pinpoint. For some it was the dance, for others the game and parade, but for all the assembly on Friday was one high point as Mike Ryan and Jean Simmons were crowned king and queen of the festivities.

THE CANDIDATES

The senior boys above are about to lose their head as they put their float together.

Saturday morning groggy students climbed out of bed early enough to get the floats into their starting positions for the parade at ten.

The traditional spirit was found in abundance here as the line of decorated cars and floats wound its way from Riverside park, along the parade route and back to Alleman for judging by a panel of teachers.

The junior class took top honors with its float, "Somethin's Brewin'." The prize for the most cleverly decorated car went to Sandy Ortiz for her theme of "checkmate."

Then as the girls scurried to the hairdressers, the floats were dismantled and thoughts turned to the evening's football contest against St. Bede's.

The final score was 27-7 as happy Allemanites left the stadium to dash home for a quick change and then back to the gymnasium for the dance.

Scott Clark and his orchestra provided the music for the event. As the state-provided witching hour drew near, AHS students rounded up parents and chaperones and started for varied post-dance activities.

Monday and school came all too soon. Homecoming '63, like its predessors, now takes its place among everyone's high school memories.

Marauders show their Pioneer spirit with their stylized "hangin' tree."

She's got it, he sees it . . . a handful of flowers.

Some seniors will remember the gaity, some the quiet happiness of the '63 Homecoming dance. Shown above are Joe Cervantes, Rosemary Schild, Jean Simmons, and Mike Ryan.

Wall flowers and their escorts pass the time with a sophisticated parlor game — musical chairs — during a lull in the dance.

Merit STANDing ovation

A standing ovation was the usual reaction of Alleman students to the assemblies presented this year.

The assemblies were many and diversified. The Homecoming assembly provided happy memories and everyone got a big "bang" out of the fire assembly.

The Alleman chorus once again furnished the students with Christmas cheer, while East Moline and Rock Island gave fine exchange assemblies.

The Student Council assemblies consisted of the monthly open meeting as well as the annual campaign assembly.

There were the scheduled pep rallies as well as those emergency rallies called when our basketball team decided to keep on winning.

Class assemblies were given by the senior, junior, and sophomore classes, and the Christian Brothers and the Belgian consul provided lecture assemblies.

One of the highlights of the Spanish assembly was a Mexican hat dance done by Maria Trejo and Cecilia Olvera.

For the first time Alleman students witnessed something new in assemblies — the departmental assembly.

The Journalism department got the ball rolling when they quizzed Father O'Connor about school policy early in the year. They later sought the opinions of the main council candidates during the Student Council press assembly.

Sister Kenneth's Junior mathematicians exhibited the intricracies of a computer, while the Debate Club demonstrated the fine points of debating to the student body.

The Drama Club presented "The Rented Tuxedo," a light comedy and students were entertained by the Pan American songs and dances presented by the Spanish department.

"The girls have all the answers," at least in the computer assembly presented by Sister Kenneth B.V.M. and her junior math students.

One of the most unusual assemblies this year was the speech on Belgium given by that country's consul in the Midwest, Mr. Boelaerts.

"What does your daddy do here?" "I don't know." Few could resist the charm of Jimmy Morris as he helped Father Gildner distribute Christmas cheer.

BORED TO DEATH

With the ratification of the revised constitution, the change in delegate committee election and a renewed effort to improve leadership, the Student Government this year made further steps toward increased individual student responsibility.

Under the direction of Mr. Al Loete, Father Frank Wuellner, and Juliann Scott, leadership workshops were offered on six consecutive Saturdays during October and November and again during January and February.

In the first semester the open assembly became a thing of the past as students refused to take any interest in it.

In February, the annual campaigns were again in full swing. Assemblies were set up to present class-office and Main-Council candidates.

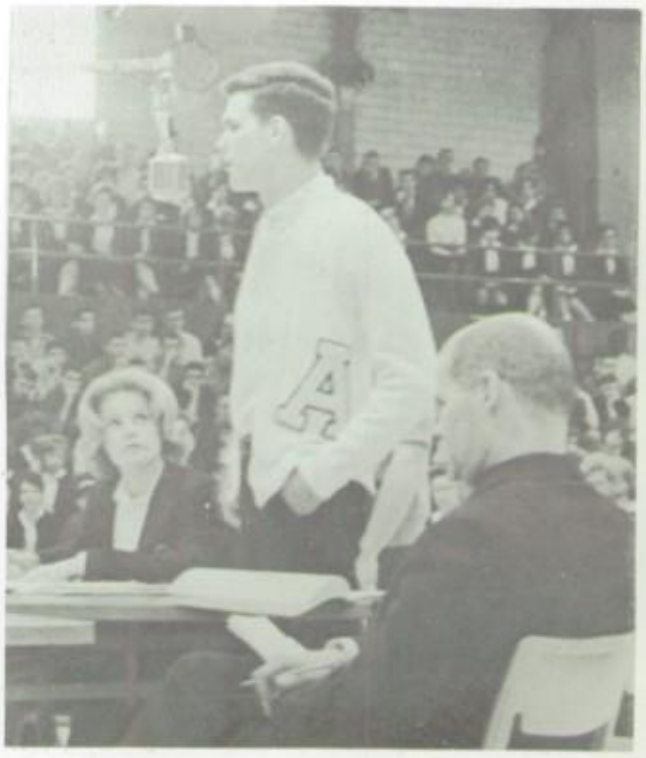
"Building for tomorrow" are, above and below, students supporting their candidates with posters, and sometimes a strong arm.

Surrounding Mrs. Vande Voorde as they wait their turn to vote are patient students Gary Rowe, Mike Durr, Art De Vooght, and Joyce Loete.

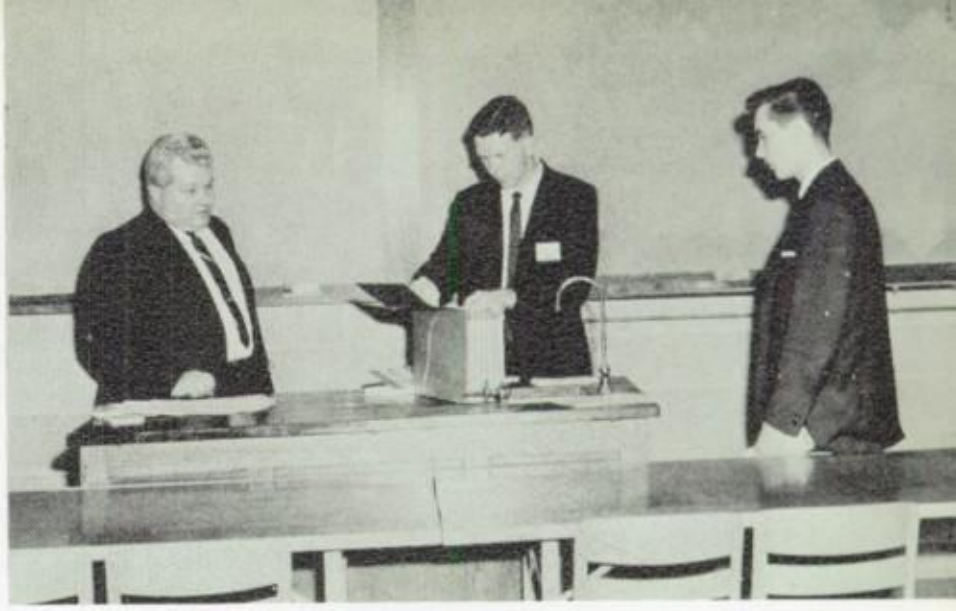
"and if I'm elected . . . " Thoughts and speeches of the candidates run along these lines during the student council campaign assembly.

Behind the scenes, thinking and planning and policy-making go on.



Before the school, results of the careful planning are seen . . . sometimes.

College Day



"How far is it from this area?" "Are scholarships available?" "Do I have to take the S.A.T.'s?" Students bombarded college representatives with questions during the annual college day.

He never worried about deadlines and such,
Layouts and cuts never bothered him much.
The lazy dog deserved what he got
We struck him too when the fire was hot.
Now, relaxed, he lies in his grave,
So richly deserving the fate that we gave.

How did we love thee?
Let us count the ways:
Midst copy and glue and a thousand mistakes,
And pictures and prints and a million retakes;
We drove you slowly out of your mind,
We kept you up nights till you nearly went blind.
Then, one day, you finally collapsed,
The drive was gone, the energy snapped.
You lay like a puddle of melted tar
There was no mourning when you crossed the bar.

Who says girls are the weaker sex? Looking over the activities of the Girls' Athletic Association of Alleman, it would be hard to prove.

Besides giving the girls a chance to get together once a month and furthering their athletic interests, the GAA is an organization which accomplishes many things during the year.

To get into the swing of things in the fall, GAA takes over the responsibility of the concession stands at the football games.

When homecoming time rolls around plans are made for the coronation assembly under the direction of GAA girls. Corsages are purchased, the agenda drawn up, and general preparations completed.

During the year the GAA is exactly what its name implies — athletics. Each class has several bowling teams which compete for the high team average at the end of the season.

A fall activity day, commonly called the "weiner boil," is held in November. The girls decided it would be a fallacy to call it a weiner roast because the hot dogs are cooked in the cafeteria. After a day of vigorous exercises ranging from volleyball to kickball, the girls lineup, winning teams first, and bunny-hop to the cafeteria where sustenance awaits them.

Various tournaments are scheduled throughout the year. At Christmas vacation the girls participate in the basketball tournament. Class eliminations are held, and then the sophomores, juniors and seniors battle it out for the championship. The volleyball tournament, held during the Easter holidays, is run on a similar basis.

To climax an eventful year, award night is held in May. Special recognition is given to the winning participants of each event, and numerals and letters are awarded to those girls who have earned these honors. Many tears of joy are shed by melancholy seniors as they realize this memory filled year is drawing to a close.

Sandy Hafner, ping pong champion, grins after successfully beating her last opponent.

No matter how they do it, the aim of the girl is the same — help get a high team score.

Go Pioneers Go

"Hail Mary, full of grace . . . Please, let it go in." Nobody murmured this phrase more often than this year's A.H.S. cheering squad.

Besides enlisting help from above, the traditional five varsity girls were joined by three boys, Alleman's first male cheerleaders.

According to Bob Gemignani, Don Anderson, and Tom Brown, the nicest part of their job was meeting the opposing teams' squads, all girls!

Training of this talented squad is under the supervision of Miss Maureen Flynn. In an average week the girls practice 7 hours, perfecting their co-ordination and planning new cheers.

Although Don, Bob, and Tom don't perform on the floor, their influence is decidedly noticeable in the increased volume of sound from the boys. .

No one disputes that the Alleman school spirit can be measured in terms of the cheerleaders' spirit. That's why it was so outstanding this year.

Thanks girls . . . oh, and you, too, fellas!

"Come on, team . . . " Bob Gemigna adds volume to the cheering squad.

Leading off the assembly was a dance comparable to what the teens of the United States do. Following through with the gay feeling, this act was followed by dances, including the Bamba, Samba, and the familiar Mexican Hat dance. Songs that were sung and played included Malaguena, La sorella, La naranjitas, Granada, and Valencia.

DEBATE

Under the direction of Mr. Donald Capes, the Debate Club blossomed this year, by participating in many activities throughout the year.

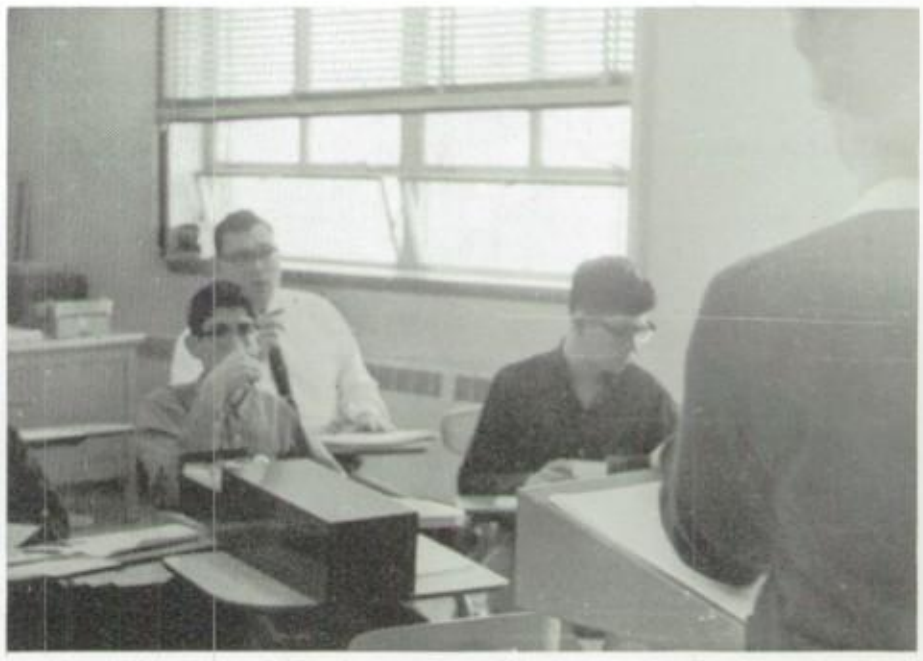
Besides the debates with other schools, the Alleman Debate Club participated in various tournaments and acted as spectators at the state debate tournaments.

In the line of assemblies, the Debate Club presented an interesting debate on Federal Aid to Education. They used this topic again in the debates they presented to several grade schools.

Upon opening membership to the club, the veteran members taught the novices the procedures and methods of debate. This was known as the training session.

Mr. Donald Capes explains the procedures of debate to the students of St. Mary's grade school.

"Thank you!" A.H.S. students watched as debaters demonstrated the power of words in a debate on federal aid to education. (l. to r.) Tom Gilmore, Phil Schwartz, Louise Meiresonne, and Pat Dougherty.



Technique and preparation for debate is begun in debate class — a new addition to the curriculum this year.

National Honor Society

Under the leadership of Dennis Carr as president, Jim Fehl vice-president, Mag Downing secretary, and Jane Frieband treasurer, the Honor Society helped out at various functions. They performed the duties of school hostesses at such functions as college day and open house.

Unlike past years, juniors were not inducted into the Alleman chapter this spring. They will instead be installed as probationary members in September, and will become permanent members at graduation.

Honor Society members greeted guests arriving for the open house held January 12.

One of the club's major activities was a D.R.Y. convention held at Alleman. Other school's student librarians attended.

The Drama Club is another club which takes up a great portion of its member's time and trouble. The long hours of practice and the many meetings paid off when the Drama Club presented a one act play, The Rented Tux, for an assembly.

Drama club officers Kathy Sonneville, Jerry Kelly, Rosemary Schild and Margaret Kerschieter with advisor Miss Audrey Ann McGregor stop during a planning session for the play "The Rented Tux" that the club presented for the student body.

The music of France is varied and interesting. Club members try their vocal talents on "Frere Jacques" as Mrs. Van Huele watches.

A good way to learn about a country is to hear about it from those who know it. With this idea in mind, the French Club listened to Mr. Jean Jacques LaLevee and Miss Lucienne Laleu tell of France.

French Influence At A.H.S.

This year's newly organized French Club has been one of the more active organizations at Alleman.

In addition to monthly business meetings, Club members have been introduced to the French way of life through various guest speakers. Another meeting featured three films on France.

Mrs. Van Heule serves as adivisor for this group.

Another movie begins, and club members are whisked away to France.

Extra-curricular activities play a big part in the lives of most Allemanites. Clubs around the school this year ranged from purely social to dedicated service organizations.

The industrial art students at Alleman may join the Pioneer Craftsmen Club, under the supervision of Father Hugh Robbins, C.S.V. Every April the Craftsmen journey to Springfield for the two day state convention.

The Alleman Chess Club is in its second year and has been gaining popularity with the underclassmen. The club has been discussed in local newspapers and is hailed as a big step toward teenagers' intellectual rebirth.

Mrs. Lessner's Visual Aids Group receives a lot less notice and praise than it deserves. The members loyally provide projector and tape recorder operators for the entire school.

Alleman has always had its share of Junior Achievement members. This year the turnout was larger than ever. Moline's new television station, WQAD, sponsored a J.A. group this year. Several Alleman upperclassmen were included in this miniature company, which put on an entire series of entertainment shows this season.

Pioneers Finish Fourth At State

The 1964 basketball season opened with the Pioneers dropping the first two games to Rock Island and East Moline.

The team then took four straight, including a convincing win over Moline. Alleman closed out its regular season with loses to Assumption, East Moline, and Rock Island, finishing with a 12-10 record.

In the first game of the Moline Regional, Alleman escaped with a 54-51 victory over Geneseo, giving the impression that the Pioneer victory trail might be short.

But in the next two games Alleman beat the co-holders of the Quad-City and Mississippi Valley championship, East Moline and Rock Island. The Pioneers downed the Panthers 61-57 to earn a berth in the championship game against Rock Island.

Alleman defeated the Rocks 59 - 57 to win the school's first Regional crown.

Tourney action then moved to East Moline with Alleman playing Kewanee. The Pioneers defeated the Boiler-makers 69-36, and then won its second trophy by beating the Galva Wildcats 73-57.

With Champaign just one step away, Alleman was not to be denied, and on St. Patrick's Day, the Alleman Irish defeated Rockford Auburn 57-56.

The Alleman magicians had one more trick left in their bag. In the first game of their State tournament action, the Pioneers dethroned the first ranked Centralia Orphans 57-56, before 16,000 fans.

This was the end of the trail for the Pioneers, who dropped the semifinal game to Pekin and play-off to Decatur.

Injury-Prone Team Ends 3-4-1

Coach Herm Miskowicz led the 1963 edition of Alleman's football team to a 3-4-1 record. The Pioneers opened against Assumption with a 13-0 victory, then lost to Moline the following Friday, 13-0.

In the third start of the campaign, the Pioneers edged East Moline 14-13 for their first win over the Panthers in five seasons. Against St. Bede in the Homecoming game, the Bruins absorbed a 27-7 shellacking, as Alleman came up with their second straight win.

City rival Rock Island ended the two-game winning streak as they stopped the Pioneers 13-12. The following Sunday at Wahlert, the Alleman offense couldn't get rolling in the first half, the defense didn't click, and Wahlert rolled up a 13-0 advantage at intermission. The Pioneers came back in the second half with two touchdowns but made only one extra point and had to settle for a tie.

The longest part of the season was the last two weeks as the Pioneers lost first at Regis, 20-7, and then to Bettendorf 14-7.

Injuries plagued the team thruout the season. Senior letterman Mike Ryan suffered a punctured lung and never played a game. Jim Hughes injured his kidneys mid-way through the campaign and was out for the duration. Brian Ternoey broke a collarbone, Mike Brewers hurt a shoulder and Paul Leahy never got into top shape due to knee trouble.

Matmen Make Name At State

It was a tournament year for the Pioneers as the Alleman wrestling squad, after a losing season, placed 15th in the state meet. This, the highest finish since wrestling started at Alleman, was accomplished through the individual efforts of Bob Gemignani and John Kennedy. Gemignani placed second in the state meet at 180 pounds compiling an overall record of 23 wins and 2 losses. Kennedy placed a virtual fifth at 133 pounds losing in the state semi-finals and finished with 19 wins and 4 losses.

Perhaps the brightest spot of the 4-7 record for regular season was the big win against East Moline 27-20, thus marking the first Alleman wrestling win over an Illinois Quad-City school. Other wins included Riverdale, Orion, and Newman Sterling.

Also strong during tournament matches were Pat Wilson (127) who won the District Crown and Don Anderson (120) who placed second at the District and Luis Montez (103) who placed third.

Alleman High School was the result of the dreams of many men. In 1926, Father Culemans lit the spark when he suggested the idea of a central Catholic high school for Rock Island County to Monsignor Durkin.

With this novel idea developing in his mind, Monsignor Durkin urged the bishop of the diocese to purchase the land across from Lincoln Park.

Thus, Archbishop Schlarman enters the history of Alleman. He headed the diocesan fund raising campaign which made the dream come true.

In 1958, Monsignor Durkin turned the first spade of dirt. By August, 1949, the school was dedicated.

At this time the legacy of the dream was turned over to Reverend John O'Connor, our principal. In his fifteen years, he has fulfilled the dream of his predecessors.

The name of Father O'Connor has become synonymous with Alleman. Guiding the school and helping it develop has been no easy job. Father is seen in many ways by all who come in contact with him.

In the eyes of the student body, he is a stern disciplinarian. To the faculty, he is the general "fix it man." He sees that the school is run smoothly. If anything goes wrong, the administration always has Father to look to for a solution. In the classes he teaches, the students see him as an open-minded instructor. Parents picture him as the man to yell at when "little Johnny is flunking." To the school board, he is the wonderman who stretches the income to fit the budget. To all who know him well, this dedicated priest is a friend.

Father O'Connor has made Alleman more than a dream; he has made it a reality.

A transition took place this year in the counseling department. Relieved of administrative and disciplinary tasks through the actions of the grievance committee and infirmarian, the counselors turned their energies to two goals — extending their services to more of the students, and providing more information through homeroom instruction.

The two-fold program enabled them to maintain the personal contact so essential to counseling, but still provide mass communication on such matters as college day and registration.

ALLEMAN SUPPLY STORE

Love May Make the World Go 'Round . . .

But here at Alleman several different work crews keep the school going.

The cafeteria workers under the direction of Miss Catherine Colligan hold the all–important position of keeping the students and faculty well fed.

Alleman's devoted bus drivers brave the often inclement Illinois weather to daily bring Allemanites to school.

The fine secretarial staff keeps the business end of the school moving by keeping student records and performing the countless other clerical tasks.

Forever dusting, cleaning, polishing, and picking up after us is our excellent janitorial crew.

The maintenance staff keeps the school intact by repairing broken Venetian blinds, replacing light fixtures, and taking care of the other numerous emergencies.

When the members of the Class of '64 look back over their four years at Alleman, a treasury of memories awaits them.

The telephone conversation in their sophomore assembly, the Chinese sisters who were stowaway on the Showboat, and the large '64 on the stage curtains during their final class production provide ample food for reminiscing.

Some will recall being one of the 35 members of the National Honor Society, or one of the two National Merit finalists, or one of the eight Illinois State Scholarship semi-finalists.

Most will remember the excitement of the State basketball tournament and 43 boys will remember the thrill of being varsity letter winners.

Clubs will be thought of and 62 girls will remember good old GAA days.

All will remember different things, but they will never forget the unity that has bound them together these past four years as the Class of '64.

"I am sophisticated, you are sophisticated, he is sophisticated, we are sophisticated, they are sophisticated" — or at least trying. Members of the senior class council are (standing) Diane Vande Putte, Terry Payne, Gloria Young, Margaret Kerschicter, Bob Gemignani, president, Deanne South, Carol Bromley, Bob Calsyn, Sheila Wilson, (seated) John De Greve, vice president, and Mag Downing, secretary-treasurer.

This Was The Class

We're off to see the Wizard—scare-crow Jan Gray and lion duet from the "Wizard of 'Oz."

Senior year is like stepping on a roller coaster. Once it starts, you sit back and take the ups with the downs, always anticipating the whirlwind finish.

In review the ride seems short, but the memory of its thrills lingers on. So it is with senior year. It comes too fast, goes too soon, but leaves many memories.

Supporting Organizations

Parents and alumni play an important role at Alleman. Besides their moral support, many of them actively support the school through membership in the Men's Club, Home and School Association, Alumni Association, and Band Boosters.

In recent years the proceeds from the Home and School Association's card parties have been used to purchase new audio-visual equipment. The current Men's Club project has been installation of a track for the athletic department, and both the Alumni and Band Boosters have been raising money for various projects.

Members of the Mens' Club sold chances on $250.00 to raise money for the new cinder track.

Officers for the Home and School Association for this year were (l. to r.) Mrs. Agnes Molinelli, treasurer; Mrs. Mary Jo Trant, president; Mrs. Betty Hoppe, secretary; and Mrs. Kay Negro, vice-president.

Alleman Joins Nation In Mourning Loss of President

GARY ROSSMILLER
November 11, 1962
Alleman Deceased

It was fifth period, Friday, November 22, 1963. Classes were in session as usual when the loudspeakers suddenly blurted, "We repeat, Mrs. Connolly and the First Lady are unharmed."

Students stared at the speakers. Then, as our dying President was rushed to Parkland Memorial Hospital, classes ceased and reaction set in.

"Oh, God, not our President," sobbed one girl as she numbly fingered her rosary. A boy clenched, then unclenched his fists and buried his head in his arms.

Thirty minutes later the final announcement came, reverberating down the silent halls, mingling with the sounds of crying and prayers. "John Fitzgerald Kennedy, 35th President of the United States, is dead."

Alleman students joined the nation in the following three days of mourning and then returned to school to join in offering a memorial Mass.

Few, if any, will forget this man and the brief impact he had on our lives. His words live after him. "Fellow Americans — ask not what your country can do for you — ask what you can do for your country."

He gave his life.

Greater love hath no photographer than Mr. Calbrecht who risked his neck to take the homeroom pictures from the scaffolding.

Acknowledgments

The job of editing this book isn't finished until our thanks is given to the many, many people who made this anniversary edition possible.

First we thank Father O'Connor who gave us permission to begin work on a hardcover yearbook. Special thanks must go to Sister Kevin, our advisor, who began this task against all her better wishes.

Mr. Art Van Lancker of Model Printers and Mr. Lucien Calbrecht of Calbrecht studios both deserve recognition for their patience and aid.

Financially the book would have been an impossibility without the support of all our advertisers.

We also want to thank the Quad-City newspapermen, as well as those in Champaign, who sent pictures for our use.

To the members of the faculty who endured our class interruptions and unexpected cameras, we extend a thank you, and the support we received from the student body is worthy of recognition here. Your interest made our job much easier.

On behalf of the entire staff, we want to say "thank you" to our parents who suffered through these months of having "home again, gone again" children.

We owe the biggest debt of gratitude, however to our staff, especially to Tom Vancura, Joe Kotleba, and Marian Garrison, who, though they weren't members of our journalism class, contributed as much and more than we did to this book.

Words can't really give enough thanks to those who worked on the PIONEER. For them we can only say that in striving to present the best yearbook possible, they sought the impossible, found it, and didn't yield until they finished the job, one we're proud of.
